

REMARKS

Prior to entry of this Amendment, claims 1-4, 7-11, 35, and 36 were pending in this application. Claim 1 has been amended, no claims have been added, and claim 36 has been canceled herein. Therefore, claims 1-4, 7-11, and 35 are now pending in this application. Applicants respectfully request reconsideration of these claims for at least the reasons presented below.

35 U.S.C. § 102 Rejection, Flitcroft

The Office Action rejected claims 1-4, 7-10, and 36 under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as being anticipated by U. S. Patent No. 6,636,833 to Flitcroft et al. (hereinafter "Flitcroft"). The Applicant respectfully submits the following arguments pointing out significant differences between claims 1-4, 7-10, and 36 submitted by the Applicants and Flitcroft.

"A claim is anticipated only if each and every element as set forth in the claim is found, either expressly or inherently described, in a single prior art reference." MPEP 2131 citing Verdegaal Bros. v. Union Oil Co. of California, 814 F.2d 628, 631, 2 USPQ2d 1051, 1053 (Fed. Cir. 1987). Applicants respectfully argue that Flitcroft fails to disclose each and every claimed element. For example, Flitcroft fails to disclose, either expressly or inherently, multiple accounts as recited in claim 1.

As noted previously, Flitcroft is directed to "a credit card system and method offering reduced potential of credit card number misuse." (Col. 1, lines 19-21) More specifically, Flitcroft discloses "maintaining a pool of credit card numbers which share identical formatting; assigning at least one credit card number from the pool of credit card numbers to be a master credit card number; assigning at least one credit card number from the pool of credit card numbers to be a limited-use credit card number which is deactivated upon a use-triggered condition subsequent; and associating the master credit card number with the limited-use credit card number, while ensuring that the master credit card number cannot be discovered on the basis of the limited-use credit card number." (Col. 4, line 61 - col. 5, line 4) That is, Flitcroft discloses assigning limited use numbers to an account that can be used as proxies or aliases for the real number of the account (the "master number").

However, Flitcroft does not disclose, expressly or inherently, more than one account. Rather, Flitcroft discloses only one master account having a number of different limited use account numbers. For example, FIG. 7 of Flitcroft and the accompanying description found at col. 25, lines 1-63 describe a process for processing a transaction in which a limited use number is used to look up an associated master account number which is then passed to the processing system (see specifically col. 25, lines 15-18). Furthermore, Flitcroft does not disclose a first account of a first credit product and a second account of a second credit product different from the first credit product, e.g., a MasterCard account and a Visa account. The Applicants note that the Office Action cites col. 6, lines 32-49 as allegedly disclosing a first account of a first credit product and a second account of a second credit product different from the first credit product. However, rather than disclosing a first account of a first credit product and a second account of a second credit product different from the first credit product, this section of Flitcroft seems to be a general definition of the term credit card as used in the description. Furthermore, the paragraph containing the cited section goes on to note:

"It will be appreciated that an account may have many master credit cards in the sense of this specification. For example a corporation may provide many of its employees with credit cards but essentially each of these employees holds a master credit card even if there is only one customer account. Each of these master credit cards will have a unique master credit card number, which set of master credit card numbers will be linked to the account. Similarly, in families, various members of the family may hold a master credit card all of which are paid for out of the one customer account." (Col. 6, lines 43-52, emphasis added)

Thus, Flitcroft specifically discloses only one account, not a first account of a first credit product and a second account of a second credit product different from the first credit product.

Claim 1, upon which claims 2-4, 7-11, 35, and 36 depend, recites in part "establishing a first credit card account of a first credit product with a holder of the first account; establishing a second credit card account of a second credit product with a holder of the second account wherein the credit product is different from the second credit product." Flitcroft does not disclose, expressly or inherently, a first account of a first credit product and a second account of a second credit product different from the first credit product. Rather, Flitcroft describes only one account which may have a number of associated limited use numbers that are used as aliases for the master account number. For at least these reasons, the rejection should be withdrawn and claims 1-4, 7-11, 35, and 36 should be allowed.

35 U.S.C. § 103 Rejection, Flitcroft in view of Walker

The Office Action has rejected claim 11 under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Flitcroft as applied to claim 3 in view of U. S. Patent No. 6,327,573 to Walker et al. (hereinafter "Walker"). The Applicants respectfully requests withdrawal of the rejection and allowance of the claim for at least the reason that claim 11 depends upon claim 1 that is thought to be allowable as described in detail above.

35 U.S.C. § 103 Rejection, Flitcroft in view of Musmanno

The Office Action has rejected claim 35 under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Flitcroft as applied to claim 3 in view of U. S. Patent No. 5,826,243 to Musmanno et al. (hereinafter "Musmanno"). The Applicants respectfully requests withdrawal of the rejection and allowance of the claim for at least the reason that claim 35 depends upon claim 1 that is thought to be allowable as described in detail above.

CONCLUSION

In view of the foregoing, Applicants believe all claims now pending in this Application are in condition for allowance. The issuance of a formal Notice of Allowance at an early date is respectfully requested.
